KING COTTON HAS $800,000,000 TO GIVE

TO PLANTERS OF THE SOUTH THIS YEAR.—SHORTAGE OF 3,000,000 BALES TELLS THE STORY.

Expert on Crops and Prices Estimates That the Short Crop Will Yield the Biggest Amount of Money Yet Received By Growers of the Staple Memphis Tenn Aug 9.—With a short crop—the shortest in ten years—King Cotton is still king south of the Mason and Dixon line and the planters, seeing prosperity in every breeze, look forward to a bonanza year.

With the vast crowd of its giant output this year, a bazaar and a fair in the South taking a bumper crop expects to share just as heavily in the prosperity of the harvest moon.

It is the price that does it. Fifteen cent cotton is in sight for this year, and fifteen cent cotton spells gold.

With ten cent cotton the south had its market flooded and it began to put money in the bank.

With fifteen cent cotton the South can try will be swept up to new heights of prosperity. What matter the short crop? That but helps the price climb. It's the law of supply and demand.

The South can raise 11,000,000 bales at 15 cents a pound much more profitably than 14,000,000 bales at 10 cents a pound.

The government report on July 1st said the condition of the crop was 71.9 per cent as compared with the July 1908 report of 53 per cent.

It is the richest cotton producing state in the country usually sends about 4,500,000 bales to market but long droughts have killed and retarded the growing cotton this summer to such an extent it is estimated that Texas will fall short of her usual bumper crop by 1,000,000 bales.

With drought has been a warning against King Cotton on the plains of Texas the Mississippi delta the richest spot in America has been visited at different times with excessive rains and turbulent floods which have cut off the cotton lands and made planting a necessity.

Lately in this section on planters have experienced a lack of rain just when the growing corps needed it most.

Cotton experts estimate this year's crop at 11,000,000 bales much less favorable weather during the remainder of the summer improves the condition of the crop far beyond expectations. This will be seen in the fact 3,000,000 bales short of last year's crop will be a total of nearly 14,000,000 bales.

But there is no sorrow or wailing. It is predicted that the price may be 15 cents per pound for the short crop averaged by the 9 and 10 cents.

In the past few years planters have banded together in all sections of the South in an effort to hold their cotton for a certain price. Immense war houses have been built in which hundreds of thousands of bales of cotton are stored every fall waiting for the speculated price before selling the cotton.

This year the short crop will accomplish far more in the way of a better price than a thousand

THE APOSTATE JEW.

I will not say that the Jew who repudiates his religion is universally bad. On the contrary, history, sacred and profane, contains many instances of the Jew who laid aside the faith of his fathers and took up the Cross, arose to eminence in the Christian world and are gratefully remembered as benefactors of mankind.

There also may be a great many others to fame and the world unknown who were true men faithful to righteousness and loyal to truth.

But I have never seen with my own eyes an apostate Jew, one who repudiates the religious faith of his fathers, who was not as unreliable as an epitaph and as full of tricks and meanness as a cadaver is full of worms.

I do not say that it is impossible for him to do it.

Really, it ought to be possible for him to be good.

But I have never seen him.

Have you? If you have send me his name. Think I'd make a journey across the continent to look on him.—Vardaman

COL. H. S. D. MALLORY AT WORK.

Is in Capital City For Purpose of Lending Influence in Passage of Amendment

Montgomery, Ala., Aug. 9.—Col. H. S. D. Mallory, of Selma, candidate for governor, arrived in Montgomery early this morning. Mr. Mallory is in the capital city for the purpose of lending his influence and strength to the passage of the prohibition constitutional amendment through the senate.

Several weeks ago Col. Mallory committed himself to constitutional prohibition and responded promptly when his services were needed for the amendment. This morning Mr. Mallory spent three

A WOMAN CONGRESSMAN

A good deal has been said of late about the prospect of having a woman member of congress from Colorado. It would be novel to have a female member of congress, and no doubt the paragraphers would soon make her famous. A Massachusetts paper, referring to the matter, says:

"The prospect, however remote, of a woman—Mrs. Sarah Platt Decker—being elected to congress from Colorado involves a nice little problem for solution by Mrs. Decker herself, by the State of Colorado, or by the federal house of representatives. Regarding the qualifications of members of the lower branch of congress, the constitution of the United States sensibly provides that 'no person shall be a representative who shall not have attained the age of 25 years and been seven years a citizen of the United States, and who shall not, when elected, be an inhabitant of that state in which he shall be chosen.' At present that pronoun 'he' seems to be a source of disturbance. Strict adherents to the letter of the constitution maintain that the presence of the masculine pronoun, and the absence of any other, obviously renders ineligible any person of the feminine persuasion.

"With this objection removed by recollection of the fact that, in early English 'he' referred to a feminine or neuter noun, or to one in the plural, as well as a noun in the masculine singular, and by the philologist's argument that 'he' refers to any individual of mankind, and that since woman is an individual of mankind, 'he' refers to woman, there would still remain the question as to whether a woman politician of congressional calibre would permit herself to be elected as a 'he.' In the event of her making this concession, and being seated in due fashion as a member of the house, would she allow herself to be hailed as a 'congresswoman?' Birmingham News

RELIEF FOR VETERANS

SHOULD GET THEIR MONEY PROMPTLY.

Senator Blackman Introducing 3 Bills For Nasty Soldiers.

Senator Blackman yesterday introduced three bills for relief of the nasty Confederate soldiers and their widows. The main bill provides the fact that by act of Legislature approved March 4, 1907, all Confederate soldiers were deprived of their pensions due Oct. 1, 1907, and at the time $510,000.73 was in State Treasury, collected for their benefit, and that a further sum of $100,000.00 appropriated for their benefit.

The bill seeks to have the State Auditor in 30 days after passage and approval of this Act, draw warrant on State Treasury in favor of all soldiers on the pension roll on October 1, 1908.

Further, that if the amount available for said pensioners is not sufficient, then $510,000.73 shall be divided pro rata, and if amount is more than sufficient, the balance shall be divided in addition to the prescribed warrants.

EMIGRATION TO THE SOUTH

There are two propositions that cannot be pushed aside, namely, the development of the south is de pendent upon additional white la bor, and secondly, that labor must come from the north or from Europe. No doubt a steady tide of farmers will come to an invit ing climate from the north, but it will not be large enough to develop in a single generation southern re sources and southern possibilities.

We need immigrants, and the New York Commercial thus explains how such people can be attracted to this section: "The South beyond all question, offers better opportu nities to intending agriculturalists arriving here from Europe than does either the north or the west, and she does need a better supply of labor than she now has; and im migration stations at New Orleans and other southern points would no doubt operate to steer arriving newcomers that way. But the south must establish emigration agencies of her own in foreign countries, if she hopes ever to draw foreigners steadily within her borders or artisans or settler in her lands. The great trunk lines of American railroads, work ing primarily in their own inter est, of course, were for many years practically the European agents of the western states; and steering and ticketing emigrants through to that section from the ports of departure across the At lantic, they became most impor tant factors in the development and upbuilding of the great west and the process is still going on.

The companies owning and oper ating the trunk lines of railroad that penetrate the great south pur sued no such systematic policy.

The south must establish the for eign agencies herself, through the co-operation of the states, counties and cities; she can then have her pick of the emigrants on the other side once she causes her excep tional advantages to be known there."

All very true, but just at pres ent Commissioner Keefe is oppos ing the establishment of an immi gration station in New Orleans.

His predecessor, Mr. Sargent, fa vorably looked to the diversion of immigrants from the congested eastern cities to the south and west. There should be an united opposition to the Keefe policy. Immigration stations should be erected in several south ern ports, and these ports should get to work to defeat Keefe's plans and notions. —Age Herald.

UPHOLDING THE WIFELY

PRIVILEGE.

The Kansas City Court of Ap pels has recently indulged in some fine judicial hair-splitting to the encouragement of the art of wife-beating. A man went home one evening after a session with convivial spirits and admin istered corporal punishment to his wife. He was convicted of disturbing the peace. At the trial the wife testified, though much against her being of a forgiv ing disposition, as wives habitua ly beaten often are. An appeal was taken and the conviction set aside, since a wife cannot be com pelled to testify against her hus band.

Burning with indignation, the Court remarks that "there is no telling, if a wife under such cir cumstances should be permitted to testify, to where such a course would lead. To permit the mar quarrels between husband and wife to be used as a basis for a prosecution under the pretense that the peace of the wife had thereby been disturbed, would b against the public policy and un necessary for the protection of the wife." The law will not concern itself over domestic disturbances which involve breaches of the peace. Had Vaughan been pros ecuted for an assault and battery the wife would have been a com petent witness. This would have been a competent witness. This would have been an offense against the person of Mrs. Van than a case to which the rules do not apply.

As law in Gilbertian language is "the embodiment of everything that's excellent" presumably ideal justice has been worked out.

HOME PATRONAGE

Suppose some surgeon gradually took all the blood from your body and injected it into the body of some one who needed it? It would be a thing for the other body, but how about yours? You could not stand it for a long time, could you? Yet we bleed ourselves as follows.

We send our money from the state for corn and oats.

We send our money from the state for cash and cured meats.

We buy truck-garden stuff from Florida, Alabama and Georgia.

We buy syrup and molasses from Louisiana and the refineries.

We buy leather from the eastern manufacturers.

We buy cotton goods from eastern mills.

We buy shoes from the eastern factories with all the freight charges and middlemen's profits added.

We patronize New York, Connecticut, Pennsylvania, and New Jersey Fire, Accident, Guaranty and Life Insurance companies.

We send a few dollars east and west as a contribution to the $160,000,000 pension fund. We cannot help this item, because we had a war once.

We buy our tea elsewhere where we can raise it. South Carolina raises about 9,000 pound a year and it has been raised in this state.

We let other states make our wagons and drain the state to pay for them, and for plows, and for hoe handles, and ax handles, and other handles.

What is the matter with Mississippi? A year ago let us take stock and quit draining the state. If we could do these things and make them at home, and then introduce money in exchange for cotton, we would be in the prosperity swim such as no other state enjoys. There is no state that can better live at home than this. Mules are worth $20 each, and yet we import them from Missouri. Bacon is worth 20 cents per pound and we bring it in from Kansas City and Chicago.

Hay is worth $20 to $25 per ton and we bring it in from old Some where. Corn is worth a dollar per bushel, and Nebraska gets out money.

Let's quit.

GONDOLIERS ON STRIKE

The gondoliers of Venice are on a strike. One of the hotels put on some motor boats, and then an ancient statute was resurrected giving the right to carry passengers on the waterways of Venice exclusively by the gondoliers. But the hotel man insisted that his boats were not used for hire—they were given free to those of his patrons who wanted to see Venice in quick time.

To meet this competition other hotels have been buying motor boats, and the city fathers were asked to reconsider the propriety of amending the ancient ordinance. That was the "last straw," and the gondoliers struck. But instead of stopping, the officials from giving permits to motor boats to invade Venice, it had the contrary effect, and the chances are that in a short time the glory—and emolument—of the gondolier of Venice will have departed. All of which goes to show that progress cannot be given a quietus even by such an ancient institution as gondoliers. The gondoliers should learn how to run motor boats.—Detroit News

Can the human mind be cultivated to a better advantage than it already is? "Fassoux" has shown us, yesterday the most astonishing illustration that will remove all doubts from the most skeptical toward these scientific theories.

While blindfolded he has found a key which was previously hidden by a committee of ten, unlocked a postoffice box, found the proper letter which was placed among others, called out the number of the box, and delivered the letter where it was addressed, and read the contents of the letter.
